GLOOMY DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

Three months ago the Democracy thought it could elect its next nominee for President. It conceived the idea that if it named a conservative man he would get the votes and they the money of the great business interests whom Roosevelt was said to have alienated. In due time they picked out Alton B. Parker of New York and sat down to await the rising flood of popular enthusiasm. But instead of a rise there was a subsidence. The business interests, dissatisfied with a platform which represented a concession to Bryanism and responding to the definite financial pledges of the Republican platform, determined to support Roosevelt; and today we read in Democratic papers that money is pouring into Republican coffers and that the "trusts" are standing pat. Leading Parker papers scarcely try to conceal their vexation.

It may be set down as an axiom of American politics that the party in power stays in power except in times of financial panic or factional rebellion. Following the business disaster of 1873 was a revolt against Republicanism which gave the Democratic nominee for President a popular majority of a quarter of a million. Why he was not seated is a question of ethics. Hard times during Cleveland's last term did most to elect McKinley. Good times were the strongest obstacles that Bryan had to meet. At present the times are good enough to sustain the Roosevelt administration in public favor and defeat every scheme to impose a change for the sake of a change.

The utterances of the Democratic press on the mainland are generally gloomy. Many leading journals chide the party managers for apathy. But the managers, shrewd and capable as they are, cannot be blamed for their failure to awaken a corpse. They are making what noise they can but there is no response from the inert party mass in which all enthusiasm is dead. Nor does it seem probable that their efforts will result in anything better later on.

THE EXAMPLE OF KULA.

Kula, Maui, Sept. 16, '04.
Editor Advertiser: I might suggest that if you want any practical knowledge on the success of small farming in the district of Kula it would pay you to look into the actual condition of things here. Kula has been considered a fine field for the small farmer, and it has been the land of "corn and swine" for the past ten or fifteen years. But during the past four and a half months that I have been here I have spent a good deal of time inquiring into conditions and making observations, and I must confess the evidences of success are few and scattered. I think that to be fair and just to those whom you are trying to interest in small farming on these islands, you should at least study carefully into the actual condition of those who are now trying to make a success of small farming and find out what they are really accomplishing. I think you would find most decidedly that the results are not all that one could wish.

Ride through this district and find how few Portuguese there are left here, talk with those who are and you will find they have little to show for years of hard work.

I merely mention these facts for I feel you are doing an injustice to your readers in many of the statements you are now publishing.

Very truly yours,
F. C. ATHERTON.

The Advertiser would like to hear from Mr. Atherton more in detail. What, for instance, represents small farming in Kula? Is it the growing of corn and potatoes and other staples of the North Temperate zone? If so the failure of such crops in the Tropical zone does not surprise this paper nor does it alter our belief that tropical products may be grown for export in most localities of these islands.

The proposition is to grow sisal, pineapples, fine grades of bananas, coffee—which is now paying the Louisianais well—tobacco, Manila hemp, vanilla, etc., for export and hogs, poultry, dairy products, grapes, honey, etc., for home use and small change. This is done elsewhere in the tropics and to some extent in Hawaii; and it can be generally done if people will take hold.

The friends of Morris Keokokale are raising money, at the instance of Admiral Beckley, to bring him home from Washington. The letter published in Sunday's Advertiser touched a responsive chord and will be the means of Mr. Keokokale's return. Charity might well go a little further and bring back the aged Hawaiian couple whom Dr. Walters found in the northern part of California, where they have lived for a generation or more. Their exile has outlasted many a lifetime.

Each locality in this city has no more mosquitos than it deserves. A concerted effort in any neighborhood will clean out the pest. If mosquitos are troublesome it is due to the neglect of those they attack.

THE LEGISLATIVE SITUATION.

How long are honest men in the Republican party going to let themselves be deluded into electing Solid Thirteens who do the enemy's business in the Legislature and incidentally make work for grand juries that follow?

Two years ago the Republican machine turned out a ticket here and elsewhere which contained thirteen suspected Home Rulers and undoubted scalawags, headed by the notorious Kumalae. These men were voted for by Republicans who would not have trusted one of them, privately, with a pound of cheese. The voting was done under the party lash. To elect them the organization did its best and the Bulletin, in its effort to attach a printing graft, commended them as loyal and capable men whom it would be treachery to defeat. That paper was particularly solicitous for the election of Kumalae.

After the experience with that scandalous Legislature the feeling against electing another one like it was general. But time softens good intentions as well as asperities and now we have a Republican House ticket which portends, in the larger part of its personnel, worse things than its predecessor. The Maui ticket, with Coelho, Nakulua—who was making bitter Home Rule speeches two years ago—Haia, Kalino, Pali, et al, is so rank that it imparts the off-shore breeze. Elsewhere, there are nominees to kill in the interests of public decency; while here in the Fifth District is an aggregation of cheap incompetency which ought, in all conscience, to make even the old Seventh precinct blush. Every man who looks at the list knows that it means another Solid Thirteen standing on a platform of Addition, Division and Silence.

Yet it is Republican and good citizens and taxpayers, WHOSE MONEY IS AT STAKE, are expected to support it. But perhaps we are in error. Perhaps, as with the Solid Thirteen two years ago, it is only Republican in name and Home Rule and anti-haole at heart. If so, what are the bounden duties of citizens and taxpayers, providing that a better choice is afforded? Are they to vote against their own interests, vote to have money squandered and laws mixed up, to have the good name of the Territory besmirched again, simply because a gang of tax-eaters has temporarily taken on a Republican disguise?

Such a question need not be answered now. It may be safely left to men who, over and over again, have expressed their detestation of such a Legislature as was last elected under the Republican flag—a Legislature which only stopped stealing when, as at the special session, there was nothing left to steal but registered warrants.

Somebody signing himself E. A. Fraser and living in Mahukona writes the Bulletin a criticism of the Board of Health's circular about the per capita returns of Federal bounty to Hawaii calling it an "Advertiser dream." As the Advertiser had nothing to do with the circular further than to print it in the news columns and as the Bulletin very properly commended it editorially, Mr. Fraser seems to have become mixed as to identities.

By naming a hula-hula ticket as they did, the Republicans of the Fifth have left the door of opportunity wide open to the Democrats. We hear on every side, among respectable Republicans living Ewa of Nuuanu avenue, that a sound Democratic ticket will get their votes. The names of McNerny, Harvey, Trent and Emmeluth are mentioned and other men of ability, some of them Hawaiians, are being canvassed.

Since writing of automobile excesses here several stories of narrow escapes from being run over have come to the office. It is proper to say, however, that the auto drivers, during the last two days, have slowed their machines down. They are wise in this, for if a serious accident occurs, due to carelessness of the chauffeurs, the Legislature will not be easily restrained from making the auto-regulations drastic.

NOTHING LIKE EXPERIENCE.
"One truth learned by actual experience does more good than ten experiences one hears about." Tell a man that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure cholera morbus, and he will most likely forget it before the end of the day. Let him have a severe attack of that disease, feel that he is about to die, use this remedy, and learn from his own experience how quickly it gives relief, and he will remember it all his life. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

COUPLE START ON NEW RUN

Under a dainty canopy of maiden hair ferns and white astors Miss Minerva Umikalakaua Fernandez and Mr. Stanley Cutter were married last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Fernandez at Kailhi-waena. The ceremony was performed in the small parlor which was transformed into a pretty bower of green and white malle and ferns relieved by waxy white asters and bachelor buttons forming an attractive decorative scheme.

The marriage took place shortly after 8 o'clock and was witnessed mainly by members of the family and intimate friends. The bridesmaid was Miss Ahola, who was attired in pink, the groom being attended by Mr. Samuel Chillingworth as best man. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, he being an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

The bride looked winsome in a handsome gown of white point d'esprit over white silk, the wedding veil being caught at the coiffure with orange blossoms.

Following the ceremony the couple received beneath the bridal canopy. The reception began at 8:30 at which time a large number of guests began to arrive. Among these were the groom's associates of the Rapid Transit operating force, those present at that time being the members of the day force. At 12:30 this morning a special car left the car barns and went to Kailhi, carrying all the men of the night force who had just been relieved from duty. The bride and groom held a special reception for them. The car was placed at the disposal of the men by Manager Ballentyne as a mark of favor toward the groom. The gift of the groom's associates was a handsome purse containing $65 in gold. Among other presents were sets of table silver, paintings, linen, furniture, ornaments and calabashes.

Following the first reception the guests repaired to the lawn upon which had been erected a large lanai, which was handsomely decorated with Hawaiian and American flags. Two huge Hawaiian ensigns covered the ceiling. A Hawaiian orchestra played throughout the evening and the guests danced to their heart's content. The first waltz was danced by the bride and groom. Dainty refreshments were served, a host of young people assisting in providing for the guests.

The couple will reside at the Bromley residence, Anapuni street.

Representative Hull of Iowa, sent some garden seed to a constituent last spring. They came from the Department of Agriculture and were inclosed in one of the regular franked government envelopes. On the corner of each of these envelopes appears this legend: "Penalty for private use $300." A few days later Hull received a letter from his constituent, which read: "Dear Mr. Hull: I don't know what to do about those garden seeds you sent me. I don't want to use them for the public. I want to plant them in my private garden. I can't afford to pay $300 for the privilege. Won't you see if you can't fix it so I can use them privately, for I am a law-abiding citizen and do not want to commit any crime?"

A story showing the incorruptibility of the London Times is told with Lord Randolph Churchill as the central figure. Churchill had made up his mind to resign. It was a great piece of news, and Churchill, on going to Buckle, the editor of the Times, felt justified in thinking that the paper would maintain a friendly attitude toward him in exchange for the exclusive information. Mr. Buckle informed him that the paper's attitude toward him would continue to be unfriendly. But for such a piece of news," exclaimed Lord Randolph, "why, there is not another paper in England but would be grateful." "That is true," replied Mr. Buckle, "but the Times can not be bribed."

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited. Few are entirely free from it. Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it. Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

"My daughter had scrofula, with eleven sores on her neck and about her ears. Hood's Sarsaparilla was highly recommended and she took it and was cured. She is now in good health." Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind.
